

Photographer: Unknown
Publisher: Private
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Soldiers outside the Feldpostamt for the IX. Army Corps on the Western front in France. Why they use the gas masks for this postcard is a mystery, but this type of German gas mask came in 1916.

Kaiserl. Postamt im Lager

Garnison-Verwaltung

Gruss aus dem Truppenlager Zossen

Photographer: Sowka-Wessner, Phot. Atelier
Publisher: Unknown
Typography: Photomechanical collotype

Greetings from the military camp Zossen, with the emperors Postamt in the camp.
Sent in December 1914.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Outside the Feldpoststation on the Eastern front.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Unknown

Typography: Photomechanical collotype

A Feldpostexpedition on the Eastern Front. Postcard is sent with the field post in April 1917. The postcard is sent from Deutsche Feldpost Nr. 739, which belonged to the 203rd Infantry Division that was located in Latvia at this time.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

A soldier with some packages outside the field post office on the Eastern front. The postcard is marked with Feldpost 683, and indicating that it is the field post office 683 attached to the 18th Landwehr division located east of Posnan at the actual time. Field post office 683 was established on 15th February 1917, so the picture is taken some during the summer of 1917 (the unit was transferred to Western front at the end of the war).

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Soldiers and truck outside a field post office on the Eastern front. The postcard is canceled December 1916 with field post from the III. Reserve Corps. This corps was located in between Vilnius and Minsk at this time period.

Photographer: Unknown
Publisher: Private
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Outside the field post office.
 Picture is taken somewhere in the polish area.

Photographer: Unknown
Publisher: Private
Typography: Photographic bromoil

A small concert outside the field post office, the soldier to the right is more interested in his mail and parcels than the music.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Unknown

Typography: Photomechanical collotype

A field post office in Saint-Etienne-à-Arnes, France.
Postcard is sent with the field post in October 1916.

Photographer: G Berger

Publisher: Neue Photographische Gesellschaft

Typography: Photographic bromoil

The German emperor Wilhelm II with his general staff outside the imperial German field post station (Feldpostexpedition) in Galicia (The 11th Army) on the 22nd April 1915. The 11th Army was on the Western front initially but moved to the Eastern front in November 1914 until the end of the war. The 11th Army started the Gorlice–Tarnów offensive on the 1st May 1915. Postcard is unused.

Photographer: Unknown
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Publisher: Private

Feldpoststation 239 located in Kruševac (Крушевац), Serbia.
 Postcard is sent with the field post in April 1916.
 Field post from the Balkan area is rare, and this postcard identifies Feldpoststation 239 with the location name on the wall of the building.

Copy of field post sent from FPS #239.
 40 % of original size.

Photographer: Unknown
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Publisher: Private

A field post office in the Balkan Front. Postcard is marked, "Memories from Feldpost 16, Drenovo". Drenovë (Drenowo) is located in Albania.
 Field post from the Balkan area is rare.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Outside the Feldpostexpedition for the 33rd Reserve Division. The postcard is notified with March 1915. In 1915 this unit participated in battles between Maas and Mosel.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Inside the Feldpostexpedition for the 33rd Reserve Division, with many of the same personnel.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Outside the Feldpostexpedition for the 33rd Reserve Division on another location, but still on the Western front.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Double exposure of the inside and outside the Feldpostexpedition for the 33rd Reserve Division on yet another location, but still on the Western front. Sent with the field post from the 33rd Reserve Division in July 1916.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Outside a field post office on the Western front. The postcard is written but not sent, dated in December 1917.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography : Photographic bromoil

Outside a Feldpostexpedition for the Garde Ersatz Division. In January 1917, this unit was involved in trench warfare in the Champagne district, France.

Postcard is sent with the field post from the Garde Ersatz Division in January 1917.

Photographer: E. Gebauer

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Inside the field post office to 7th Cavalry Division in 1915. In 1915 this unit was located on the Western front, first in France and in the end of the year in Belgium. This is most likely a Feldpostexpedition because they were assigned to the division level of the army.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Card has the text "Today we are together with the gentlemen of the field post 844 for the last time; going to Soly tomorrow." Described and sent as field post from the 46th Landwehr Division (Field Post 728), which arose from the 3rd Reserve Division (Field Post 844). Soly is located in Belarus.

Photographer: Unknown
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Publisher: Photochemie, Berlin

A field post station (Feldpoststation) inside a train wagon in France. Photo taken around 1915. This is the only recorded picture of a field post station located inside a train wagon.

Photographer: Unknown
Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Publisher: Private

Soldiers in front of the field post office for Feldpoststation 83, located in France. Picture is taken in 1916. This is the only recorded case when the telegraph station and field post office was located together.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Outside a Feldpostexpedition on the Western front.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Ve S. Theys

Typography: Photomechanical collotype

German soldiers guarding the post office in Brüssel, Belgium.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: J. Wieland & Co

Typography: Photomechanical collotype

Mainstreet in Borkowo, Polen. The letter "F" on the photo marks where the field post office was located. Postcard is sent in November 1916.

Photographer: Kunstanstalt von N. Engel,
Diedenhofen & W. Engel

Publisher: Unknown

Typography: Photomechanical collotype

Field post wagon with field postmen outside the Feldpoststation in Verry, France.

Photographer: Unknown
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Publisher: Mar. Diloisy

Soldiers outside the Feldpoststation 129, most likely in St. Kreuz im Lebertal (Elsass at that time) (today Sainte-Croix-aux-Mines, France).
 Postcard is sent with the field post in September 1916 from this field post office.

Photographer Unknown
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Publisher: Unknown

Soldiers outside the field post office damaged by artillery fire, most likely on the Western front.
 This is the only picture of a destroyed field post station.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Officers in front of the field post station 64 (in Russia (from text)), the text describes it as Jeziora (Eastern Poland). Text says it is from his latest visit in this place, and the postcard is sent in April 1916.

Photographer: Unknown

Publisher: Private

Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

A field post office on the Eastern Front. Postcard is unused.

Photographer: Unknown
Typography: Photographic silver gelatin

Publisher: Private

A field post office on the Eastern Front. Postcard is sent from Feldpost 169, July 1917. This field post unit was assigned to the "Grenzschutz Ost".

Photographer: Unknown
Typography: Photographic gelatin POP

Publisher: Private

The Feldpoststation in Shabinka, Russia. Postcard is sent with the field post in July 1917. Shabinka is today located in Belarus not far away from Brest.